Dear George,

I am sending you the details of Mom's retirement party.

First Solero introduced Mom from a 10-year (his tenure in the Dept) perspective. Then, a senior Faculty outlined Mom's achievements in a rather long speech. Next was a Graduate Student, who took Mom's class and was also her T.A. For the staff, the head secretary was reading the "Top Ten Reasons why we are going to miss Dr Kete Berany" No: 10 We will miss you because none else will ever have their handouts ready 3 months in advance of the class. "No: 1 We will miss you because there is nobody quite as sweet and kind as you are."

Then a Postdoc. Fellow told stories of how Mom was helping in her research.

Next a Faculty read a poem about Mom.

The penultimate speaker was Mom's best friend from the Faculty, she was emotional.

The final event started with Solero's handing over to Mom 1) The plaque of the Dr Kete Berany library, which will be on the library door. 2) Giving her the plaque for the Kete Berany Graduate Student Award, with the name of the first awardee already on it.

Now Mom took the podium. She spoke slowly with emphasis on the key points. She outlined her drive, destination, and love toward the Dept. It was beautiful.

I was thinking on you during the celebration. Your idea of coming here was taken good of being here. Because of Mom's heart problem, I did not want to have more excitement for her. Now the celebration is over, and Monday we have to visit her heart doctor in order to start a treatment. This brings the new uncertainty into our life.

Mom's greatest achievements are: Joe and Francis. We thank you for sharing with us, this memorable event.

Love, Dad

Dear Kate,

Accolades! Accolades! Accolades!

Ever an accolade to one whom so well deserves it.

The "Dedication of Dr. Kate Barany Library" is the epitome of an Honor, the Most Sacred.

We as "family" take pride in the recognition by the University of Illinois at Chicago of your years dedicated to professorial excellency.

With love,
Frieda, Saul, and Daniel Nack
